Long ago, there lived a kind princess named Snow White. Her wicked stepmother, the Queen, feared that someday Snow White's beauty would outshine her own.

So she forced Snow White to dress in rags and work like a servant. But nothing could spoil the princess's sweet nature.

Each day, the Queen consulted her Magic Mirror. "Magic Mirror, on the wall, who is the fairest one of all?"

And each day the Mirror replied, "You are the fairest one of all."

But one morning, the Mirror declared that Snow White was the most beautiful woman in all the land, and the Queen flew into a jealous rage.

While Snow White attended to her chores, she sang a wish into a wishing well. She hoped that, someday soon, a prince would fall in love with her. Little did she know that a handsome prince had overheard her song.

The Prince fell in love with the princess instantly. Snow White was shy at first and fled to the castle balcony. But as he sang a love song, she placed a kiss on a friendly dove, who carried it to the Prince below.

At that very moment, the jealous Queen was plotting against the princess. She ordered her royal huntsman to take Snow White far into the forest and kill her.

Then she held out a carved box.
“Bring back her heart in this,”
she commanded him.
